City of South Bay selects City Manager

After being without a city manager for over six months, South Bay Commissioners chose one of their own to fill the vacancy. South Bay's City Manager will be former, two-term City Commissioner Michael Jackson.

Michael Jackson

Last week Mr. Jackson resigned his spot on South Bay City Commission to compete for the job of City Manager saying, "I think I can be more effective in the City Manager's position."

The South Bay City Commissioners had narrowed the competition from 20 applicants down to four finalists by Monday night.

The finalists were: Esther Berry, Kimberly Abrams, Michael Jackson, and Frank Thomas.

The four went through an interview process and gave final speeches before the commission meeting Monday night, Aug. 19.

The Commission wrote their choices down in order from first to last, then South Bay Attorney and City Clerk Virginia Walker tallied the votes.

Unofficially, Michael Jackson became the new City Manager, Kimberly Abrams is the second choice, and there was a tie for third between Esther Berry and Frank Thomas.

If and when agreements are signed, the decision to make Jackson City Manager will be official.

"I would like to thank the commission for your belief and support during the interview process and your selection. I look forward to negotiating and shortly after, beginning to work toward doing the things I talked about during the interview," said Jackson.

Esther Berry thanked everyone for their support and also asked to see the tallies of each of the commissioners who voted. Berry also congratulated Mr. Jackson. Abrams and Thomas weren't present during the results.

"I think we selected Michael because of his educational background. He has a Master's degree in Public Administration. He has government experience not only from local government but he has also worked within the school system and the business communities well; He also came back after leaving to go to school and I think that shows he has a commitment to our community," said Anthony.

"He has integral knowledge of all the projects and that is one of the reasons why I selected him. He will be able to jump right in and start work immediately," Anthony added.

Commissioner Mirlanda Smith stated, "In terms of our interviews for City Manager was a really difficult choice because we had a lot of good candidates. I think Mr. Jackson is going to do very well with the city because he has been with the past four years as a commissioner and I think the experience he has gained will be a benefit."

"I am very excited about getting started. Looking at the fact that I grew up in the area from birth to this point is a testimony to the people of my commitment. My heart has always been in this area. I started out here, left to attend college, both undergraduate and graduate, and came back to actually be a part and actually give back to the community. This is actually the 'cream of the crop' in a sense of realizing my dream," said Jackson.

The South Bay City Manager will be paid a salary between $40,000 and $45,000 annually.

Three arrested for possession of narcotics in Canal Point

Cocaine had a street value of $8,000

On Wednesday, Aug. 14, the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Department stopped $8,000 worth of cocaine from hitting the streets.

Police reports state Ricky Jones, 27, of 727 Padgett Circle, Pahokee; Tyree Wilburn, 18, of Bainbridge, Ga.; and Michael Green, 19, of Bainbridge, Ga. were northbound on U.S. 441 in Canal Point, driving a white Ford Escort, when deputies attempted to stop the vehicle.

Green and Wilburn fled east into the cane fields, dropping bags of cocaine as they fled. Both men were apprehended by Sheriff's Office K-9 unit a short distance away.

The driver, Jones, was apprehended in the vehicle.

Approximately two ounces of powdered cocaine and two ounces of crack cocaine were recovered at the scene.

All three were arrested for trafficking in cocaine, possession of cocaine, and possession of cocaine with intent to sell.

The vehicle they were driving, along with $600 in U.S. currency, was seized.

Police reports state Wilburn and Green were treated and released at Everglades Memorial Hospital for minor dog bites.

The cocaine has a street value of $8,000.

Pahokee announced as new Florida Main Street city

Six new communities have been selected to participate in the Florida Main Street Program. This program accomplished economic revitalization through historic preservation. Those chosen based on the recommendations of a seven-member advisory committee are Riviera Beach, Pahokee, Indiantown, Naples, Ft. Myers Beach, and Immokalee. "I am pleased to welcome these communities into the Florida Main Street program," said Secretary of State Sandra B. Mosher.

The six communities will join 41 other local Main Street programs that have received assistance from the Florida Department of State since 1985 to revitalize their historic downtown areas. Designation as a Florida Main Street community brings technical assistance for a three-year period makes the community eligible for a one-time $10,000 grant to initiate the program.

Since 1985, the Florida Main Street program has proven to be one of the most successful and cost-effective programs in state government. More than 2,200 downtown projects have been completed in Florida Main Street communities, representing more than $210 million in local reinvestment. During this period, the state investment in the program has been slightly more than $2 million.

Riviera Beach in Palm Beach County was incorporated in 1922 and now has a population of 18,000. Its Main Street program will feature an area along the intercoastal waterway, including the historic downtown, "Conch Village" and Spanish Court.

Pahokee was established in 1914 and incorporated in 1922. The community has a walkable downtown with access to Lake Okeechobee. Pahokee's Main Street program area will feature 16 blocks and a marina with 102 buildings.

Indiantown comprises one square mile lying between the Indian River and the Atlantic Ocean in Brevard County with a population of 3,500. The community was first platted in 1915 and its first bridge was completed in 1921. Indiantown is a beach access town, and its Main Street program will feature its commercial district with 88 buildings along 5th Avenue and AIA. Naples was platted in 1887. In the 1920's, the railroad and the Tamiami Trail reached Naples and encouraged the development of the shopping district along 5th Avenue South. Now the neighborhood commercial district is based within the historic center of Naples. The Main Street district includes 12 blocks and 50 buildings that are the subject of redevelopment master plan.

Fort Myers Beach is a newly incorporated town of 8,000 and is a traditional cottage beach community. The Main Street program in Fort Myers Beach is a partnership between the municipality and the Chamber of Commerce. The program will focus on 230 blocks and 100 buildings.

Immokalee, a major agricultural center in southwest Florida, was first settled in 1872 and named for the Seminole word "my home". Immokalee is an unincorporated community within Collier County and has a population of 17,000. Its Main Street efforts will feature 27 blocks and 75 buildings.

Members of the Florida Main Street Advisory Committee are Suzanne Walker, Florida Department of State, Tallahassee; Judith Carpenter, Florida Trust for Historic Preservation, Tallahassee; Matt Wagner, National Main Street Center, Washington, D.C.; Michelle Miller, Enterprise Florida, Orlando; Ronnie Wood, Florida Redevelopment Association, Winter Haven; Dru Stickler, Auburndale Main Street; and Susan Cook, Florida Department of Community Affairs, Tallahassee.

August 24, 1992, a date Dade County residents will never forget

By Mike Lyons

August 24, 1992. It is a date residents of Dade County and all of south Florida will never forget. It is the date Hurricane Andrew changed our lives forever.

Most of you know the vital statistics of this devastating storm: $25 billion dollars in property damage, 20 people killed, over one million residents left homeless, 86,000 people out of work, 28,000 homes destroyed.

Yet, Andrew affected more than just southern Dade County. All of us, for example, pay higher insurance rates (if we can even get home insurance). And, all of us, I think, are more aware than ever of the awesome power of Nature.

With official wind speeds of 145 mph, Andrew was the third strongest hurricane to strike the United States. Some studies have discovered winds as high as 205 mph.

Yes, Andrew was a monster. Yet, he was an unusual one.

Typically, most hurricane damage is confined to an area near the coastline—the place where the storm comes onshore. Once a hurricane is over land it begins to weaken, eventually becoming just a huge rainstorm; this hurricane took on the characteristics of a huge tornado, ripping a line of destruction across southern Dade county.

In fact, Andrew traveled across Florida and into the Gulf of Mexico. A few days later the storm hit Louisiana producing more damage and deaths.

Since 1992 scientists have studied this oddity of Nature and asked many questions. Among them: What made Andrew so powerful? Why didn't the storm weaken over land and, perhaps most importantly, is there another hurricane like Andrew in our future?

Hugh Willoughby and Peter Black, two researchers at the Hurricane Research Lab, just completed a new study on Andrew. They've come to us with four explanations for Andrew's unusual behavior.

First, the storm rapidly intensified. On August 21, Andrew was a weak tropical storm with maximum sustained winds of 50 mph. In less than 24 hours, the storm became a giant-producing winds of 155 mph. Why Andrew strengthened so much, so fast remains unclear, according to Willoughby and Black.

Second, the formation of a second eye. On August 23, a reconnaissance aircraft over the Bahamas reported a second eyewall about 12 miles from the original eye. Willoughby and Black think that when the original eye collapsed at landfall the other eye kind of took over, keeping Andrew strong and powerful.

Third, Andrew's rapid movement. The storm moved very quickly for a hurricane, reaching speeds of nearly 20 mph. Andrew crossed the Florida peninsula before the influence of land could weaken it appreciably.

Fourth, seven intense thunderstorm cells were found in the eyewall at the time of landfall. These cells rotated halfway around the eye before dissipating over Homestead. Willoughby and Black say each cell had a life span of 8 to 15 minutes during which they produced winds of 200 mph and some of the worst damage from the storm.

While both scientists have added greatly to the knowledge of Hurricane Andrew, many mysteries remain. Willoughby and Black still don't know why the storm intensified so quickly, why a second eyewall formed or where those thunderstorms came from.

Yet, both men do agree that Andrew was a freak of nature not a harbinger of things to come. But, both men add, that doesn't mean another storm like Andrew won't come along some day.

Gifts 'n' Things opens in Cypress Plaza

A new gift and novelty shop has opened at 313 North Main Street, Belle Glade in the Cypress Plaza.

Owned and operated by Terry England, the business opened its doors Aug. 10. Mrs. England has lived in Belle Glade for the past six years and says she wanted to offer the community a shop where they could browse for such items as specialty angels, special order gift baskets and floral arrangements and party supplies.

One of the more unique items which can be ordered for birthdays, anniversaries or other special occasions is balloon bouquets—gifts or flowers encased inside the balloon.

Mrs. England says she plans to expand the business to include decorating for weddings, birthdays, etc., and also increase her inventory.

Gifts 'n' Things is open Monday through Saturday from 10:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. and Sundays from noon to 4 p.m.

"I'd like to invite the residents to pop in and see if anything catches their eye," said Mrs. England.

Home safety should be a concern for all members of a family. Accidents can occur in any environment, from an infant learning to crawl and explore, when everything (whether it tastes good or not) goes into the mouth to the frail elderly who can break a hip just getting out of a chair. Accidental injuries have many causes, but they commonly result from burns, falls, and misuse of medications and/or toxic substances. Many accidents are preventable, and the following tips may help you to reduce or minimize them. They are simple suggestions that may help to jog your memory regarding safety, so here goes...

Burns - NEVER smoke in bed. Avoid smoking when you are drowsy. Avoid loose-fitting clothing when you are cooking, such as floppy sleeves that could catch on fire. Children's pajamas should be made of non-flammable materials. Test water temperature of bath or shower to avoid scalding skin. Never turn on the hot water when you're in the tub. Place space heaters at least 3 feet from things that can catch fire. Discuss and have mock fire drills, especially with children, so they understand how to evacuate the building in case of fire; i.e. which door to use, stay close to the ground, where to meet after leaving the building, etc.

Falls - use night lights to illuminate hallways and bathrooms when it's dark.

Tack down carpeting, especially on stairs. Remove throw rugs that tend to slide. Use nonskid mats or strips in bathtubs and showers. Use sturdy grab bars on the inside and outside of a shower to help steady the person prone to falls. If you live alone, take a portable phone with you into the bathroom in case of an emergency. Have a rustproof stool available if one becomes weak in the shower. Remember the bathroom is the most dangerous room in the house.

Medication/Toxic substances - Read medication instructions carefully. Take only the prescribed dose. Check the expiration date on all medications. Throw out old, out-dated drugs (what are you saving them for??). Use cleaning products in well-ventilated areas. If you feel dizzy or nauseous when using them, go to another area quickly. And never do what I did - mix bleach and ammonia together; read the labels carefully before using! Be aware that some common house plants can be poisonous, like the Daffodil.

Remove them from your home if you have young children or pets. Here are a few do's and don'ts: Do store all cleaning supplies in a locked cabinet so they cannot be ingested by young children or pets. Do take all medications as directed. Even non-prescription drugs may be dangerous if taken improperly. Do use caution when using any appliance, heating food on the stove or opening a hot oven. Turn the handles of pots so they cannot be knocked over or grabbed by young children. Don't place plants in easy reach, even non-poisonous plants may cause intestinal discomfort if ingested. Don't store food and cleaning products in the same place. It is easy to grab the wrong item to use. Store them separately. Don't take prescription and over-the-counter medications together without first speaking with your doctor. They may not mix well.

Until next time, stay informed and stay healthy.

Letter to the editor

Dr. Grear responds to Speak Out question

It was gratifying to know that we have a football fan who is really quite concerned about the number of seats currently being erected at the Glades Central football field.

In way of explanation to the general public, the Glades Central family has been involved in fund-raising ventures for almost a year now, attempting to provide money to place bleachers, press box and concession stand facilities on the field.

Facilities for football fields are not included in financial funding for schools. They will provide for the field and surrounding track, because that is needed for just the ordinary physical education activities. However, every school has to go through fund-raising to obtain the other "luxuries".

Bleacher costs are very high. It takes approximately $85 when figuring the cost for each seat purchased. If there were even enough space to place 8,000 bleachers in the space allotted for the football field, you would have to figure $85 times 8,000. This would result in a total figure of $680,000 just for bleachers. That would not include approximately $85,000 to erect the concession stand, restroom and ticket booths.

Add to that the fact that we had originally been denied the opportunity to place a press box in the home side stands because of some new specifications which the state has indicated must include an elevator. The press box itself would cost about $35,000. Add to that the cost of an elevator (approximately an additional $45,000) and we might not be able to play football at the new field for several years to come.

Belle Glade is a small community with limited resources, but it never fails to happen that those same businesses who are called upon time and again to support local causes, somehow come to the rescue.

In order to obtain the bleachers now being installed we had to borrow $200,000. We also have received sizeable donations from several of the local businesses, plus the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative has given a commitment of $85,000 to erect the concession stand and restroom facilities.

If we had to wait until we could raise enough money to place 8,000 seats in our facility, we might plan on our first event occurring in the year 2000 or later.

We've had wonderful people from various community groups as well as church groups helping us raise funds. If we have overlooked the person who wrote their concerns to the newspaper about the limited number of seats being placed in the area, I invite you to come talk with me and help us pay for what will soon be enjoyed by our fans.

8,800 doesn't sound like a lot of seats, but it is possibly a few more seats than we had at Memorial Field and I think we're doing great to have come this far. Were we able to enjoy the luxury of having one or two citizens write a check for the entire cost, we'd be happy to have more than we are putting in place. I'm just grateful that we are going to be able to play on our new field at our beautiful new campus.

Glades Central means so very much to all of us. It's a dream come true to have a beautiful school after waiting years and years.

I want to personally thank all of our supporters from the Athletic Booster Club, the School Advisory Council, the Parents As Partners who have met at St. Paul Church almost monthly since the beginning of last school year, the Sugar Cane Growers, and the other concerned businesses whom we will thank in a later article to keep from omitting anyone who has been gracious to our cause.

If you are really concerned, stop by and see me and offer some fund-raising suggestions to help complete the project. We need you!!!

Candidate will not respond to Christian Coalition

Dear Editor:

As the Democratic candidate for Palm Beach County Appraiser, I receive questionnaires from a variety of groups and organizations. The questionnaire from the "Christian" Coalition of Palm Beach County demands public response.

I, for one, will not respond to a questionnaire from an organization that purports to be concerned with Judeo-Christian values when in fact it is little more than a right-wing political organization. While their questionnaire includes some questions about prayers in school and abortion, they are clearly more concerned with right-wing ideology than with compassion or other truly "Christian" values.

Clearly this organization is merely today's version of the much discredited Moral Majority. Many critics of the Moral Majority noted that it was neither moral nor a majority. The so-called Christian Coalition is similar. It clearly lacks a

An open letter to the Cuban citizens of the Glades

I have just returned from a three-week trip to Cuba. It was my first time back in 34 years. I had a wonderful time.

In addition to seeing old relatives and meeting new ones, I traveled from Havana to the cayses of Pinar del Rio on the western end of the island, to the beaches at Veradero on the north side, to Cienfuegos on the south side, and to Virgen del Cobre near Santiago de Cuba on the eastern end. The countryside was beautiful.

In the major cities I visited numerous grand cathedrals and churches, forts, museums, and, of course, the Cementerio de Colon. Driving through Cuba is like taking a time machine back to the 1950's because of the thousands of antique automobiles on the highways.

The people of Cuba are enduring many deprivations and hardships as a result of the loss of foreign trade since the end of the Cold War. They need your help. Two best things to do are send an cash money and medicine. With the money they can buy the extra food they need. Medicine is not available to buy, so send that to them, even if it is only aspirin. There is a serious shortage of vitamins, therefore if your relatives have children, send a year's supply.

My family in Cuba had not let me know how difficult it has been during the last 3 or 4 years, and I am ashamed to have not done more to help them than I have. That will change now that I have personally experienced their hardships.

There are several companies that will deliver money, mail, and/or packages to your friends and relatives in Cuba. The company I am using is Raul's Rapid Express in Miami. Please call Raul at (305) 221-2200 for prices and information.

Many American Cubans I know refuse to send help to their relatives because they feel it helps Castro.

But, don't bother me with the politics right now; at least, not while I am still remembering the look on my sister's face as she ate the first steak she had had in 15 years, or the smile on my stepfather's face as he ate the first garbanzo beans and chorizo he had had in 8 years, or the looks on my nieces' and nephews' faces as they ate the first jello they have ever eaten, or the look on my mother's face when I gave her her first clothes washing machine.

My husband could not bear the thought of relatives using newspapers and paper sacks for toilet supply, so we bought them a full year's supply before we left.

Food, clothes, and household supplies are available in Cuba, but only if you have American dollars. We met doctors who earn the equivalent of $20 (US) per month; engineers $14 to $24; store clerks $10; "Padillas," $6.50; maid $6 to $10. With this they can buy the government supplied and subsidized rice, beans, sugar, salt and coffee, when the government stores do not run out. Meat is available for only one or two meals per month. Milk is available only for children 7 and under. Bread is rationed and sold only to families with young children. Store-bought bread is not available for adults unless you are lucky enough to have American dollars. There is a lot of food available from private sources, but with a monthly pay check of $20 or less, the people can not afford it.

If you have friends and relatives in Cuba, help them if you can, and soon.

Sincerely,

Malda Serra Boynton

Political ads to hit new low this year despite revived presidential image

By Chris Eversole

Independence Day is one of the best things to happen to the American presidency in a long time, although the coming onslaught of sleazy political spots may negate the film's impact.

So says Marilyn Roberts, a University of Florida assistant professor of journalism and communications who has spent her academic career dissecting political advertising and news coverage.

The blockbuster movie is striking a chord in the American people because it depicts the president as savior, rallying the world to quash an alien invasion, Roberts says.

This role reminds her of the past glory of the presidency. Before the dawn of modern TV campaign spots in 1963, the image of Franklin Roosevelt epitomized the presidency. FDR reigned as father figure, world leader, visionary, commander in chief, great communicator and keeper of world peace.

That image has declined, and today's presidency faces more indomitable enemies than extraterrestrial threats in the weeks ahead, Roberts says.

These foes are media consultants, whom she predicts are likely to take political advertising to new lows this election year. Advertising's power is growing as fewer voters read newspapers and watch national television news, Roberts research shows.

Voters pay more attention to image than anything else, Roberts found in studying Clayton Williams' unsuccessful campaign against then Texas Gov. Ann Richards in 1990. Of 238 voters, nine out of 10 cast their ballots for the candidate they liked most or would want to have as a friend. "Image has become more important as party affiliation has become less important to many voters," Roberts says.

When presidential candidates trash each other, they diminish the stature of the presidency she says.

"We need to not lose the symbolic power of the president as the force that unites an increasingly diverse nation."

Negativity has its limits as a political tool, Roberts contends. While Bill Clinton stuck a nearly equal balance of airing positive and negative commercials in the 1992 campaign, George Bush went overboard on negative spots.

"Voters accept, or at least tolerate, ads that compare candidates, but they have little patience for vicious personal attacks," Roberts says.

One of the dirtiest campaigns dates back to 1828, Andrew Jackson's opponents used handbills to accuse Jackson of adultery, ordering executions, stabbing a man in the back and murdering one of his own soldiers.

If nasty campaigns are not new, then why are we so bothered by them?

"What bothers us is there is so much information bombarding us, and so much of it is negative," Roberts says. "As the presidency gets torn down, it shrinks and we lose faith in the most important institution that holds this country together."

The press gets caught up in the clash of images, giving scant attention to issues, Roberts contends.

"We're all into the horse race and strategy," she says. "Increasingly, campaign consultants determine what the news media cover. 'Political consultants use pseudo-events to manipulate the campaign visuals which appear on the nightly news,' Roberts says. 'The upcoming political conventions will be carefully orchestrated events, not deliberative sessions.'

Roberts is not surprised that Americans respond so strongly to the positive depiction of the presidency in Independence Day. "Perhaps it is the positive reinforcement we need before the fall marketing starts in full force," she says.

Flint Scott retires from Everglades Regional Medical Center after 43 years with hospital

It was with a mixture of sadness and joy that Everglades Regional Medical Center accepted the resignation of Flint Scott after 43 years of service on August 5. The sadness, according to Hospital CEO Don Anderson, was for the loss to ERMC of a fine, orderly and an outstanding person. The joy was in anticipation of the activities and events Mr. Scott would not have time to enjoy.

Mr. Scott started work at Everglades Regional Medical Center on Aug. 5, 1953, when Jessie Simonds was the hospital's administrator. During his employment he has been through nine administrators, eight directors of nurses and two buildings. For his first several years of employment, Mr. Scott was the entire emergency

GOING FOR THE GOLD IN READING, WRITING, AND MATH... Rosenwald Elementary in South Bay are setting the tone for the upcoming school year by opening the school day with an Academic Torch Relay. The relay will begin at 9 a.m. at South Bay City Hall and culminate at the school. Torchbearers will include many of South Bay's community leaders. Teachers helping to organize the event and school year activities for the children are shown above with some of the "Olympic T-Shirts". Seated, from left, are Josie Boone, Christine Salchi and Sherrie Dulany. Standing, from left, are Annette Allen, Annie Russell, Principal Earlene Harrell, Cynthia Gilliam and Nedra Loggins.

FIRST UNION WINS PLAQUE FROM MARCH OF DIMES... The Belle Glade office of First Union Bank managed to wrest away the first place plaque from Worth Avenue by raising the most money for the March of Dimes among banks in the county. Belle Glade Branch Manager Jerry Blakely said through the generosity of the community, First Union raised $7,000 to benefit March of Dimes. The Worth Avenue office held the plaque for the past two years, but this year the Belle Glade office raised over $1,000 more than other branches. Shown celebrating the event are, from left, Donna Winterson, Palm Beach County March of Dimes Teamwalk Chairman, Jennifer Combs, Consumer Bank Manager, Jean King, March of Dimes Division Director, Gary Little, Belle Glade Team Captain, Jerry Blakely, Belle Glade Branch Manager and Wendy Olcott-Nelson, First Union Team Captain.

First American Home Health Care, Belle Glade, receives accreditation

The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations has awarded accreditation to First American Home Care of Belle Glade. Originally accredited in November 1993, the agency's triennial accreditation survey was conducted in Belle Glade office of Barnett Bank introduces new drive-up teller machine

June 1996.

Formed in 1951, the Joint Commission is dedicated to improving the quality of the nation's health care through voluntary accreditation. First American Home Care of Belle Glade received the accreditation award after the Joint Commission found that it had demonstrated compliance with the Joint Commission's national standards for home care organizations.

In becoming accredited, First American Home Care of Belle Glade was evaluated against a set of national standards for quality care by a Joint Commission team of surveyors experienced in the delivery of home care services," says Maryanne Popovich, RN, M.P.H., director, Home Care Accreditation Services, Joint Commission. "Achieving accreditation demonstrates First American's commitment to provide high quality care to its patients."

Paula Swaford, RN, administrator of the Belle Glade agency, says this accomplishment confirms that we have made a significant investment in quality on a day-to-day basis. She comments, "We pursued accreditation for our organization because we want to be the best. Obtaining the Joint Commission accreditation is another step toward excellence."

She notes that accreditation is attainable only through the cooperation and communication among staff members. "Everyone here at First American plays a valuable role in working to meet the standards. It gives us a feeling of prestige to work in an accredited organization," says Swaford. "We also appreciate the educational aspect of the survey and the opportunity we had to interact with the Joint Commission team."

First American provides a full range of care for patients under Medicare and private insurance. Services include nursing, certified home health aides, IV therapy, physical, speech, and occupational therapies, and medical social services.

The Belle Glade agency is part of First American Health Care, the largest privately-owned provider of home health care services in the United States. Headquartered in Brunswick, Georgia, First American employs more than 15,000 people in 450 plus agencies in 22 states.

The Belle Glade office of Barnett Bank, N.A., Lake Okeechobee has taken a big step in furthering banking convenience with the installation of the area's first drive-up automated teller.

The new SuperTeller machine, which is already operational, is located in the office's drive-through teller area at 915 South Main Street.

Commission considers Dove season shift

The Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission is scheduled to set dove hunting season dates during its August 15-16 meeting.

Commissioners will consider a proposal to set statewide dove hunting season for Oct. 5-28, Nov. 16 - Dec. 1, and Dec. 14 - Jan. 12. Previously, dove season opened on the third Saturday of Sept. in the Northwest Zone.

Another rule change to be considered by the Commission would specify that alligators may not be kept as personal pets. Current rules prohibit possession of alligators without the owner having a permit. Although the Commission issues permits only to alligator farms or to individuals who use the reptiles for exhibition, commercial or scientific purposes, enforcement officers believe possession of alligators as personal pets should be specifically prohibited.

Concerning caging, possession and harvest of alligators and other reptiles, the Commission is scheduled to consider rule changes, primarily to eliminate unnecessary restrictions and clarify specifications.

Special-opportunity and short-term hunting and fishing area criteria and permit fees, authorized by the 1996 Legislature, are scheduled for consideration by Commissioners.

Also on the agenda is a staff request for direction concerning a proposed constitutional amendment to place jurisdiction over freshwater and saltwater resources under a single agency to be called the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission. If successful, the issue will appear on the ballot during the 1998 election.

In addition, the staff plans to ask the Commission to endorse a nationwide nongame wildlife banking transactions associated with an ATM, including cash withdrawals, deposits, transfers, payments, balance inquiries, etc., but all from the convenience and safety of a car. "The drive-up teller machines have really become popular recently," said Office Manager Hattie Bennett. "It's more convenient, especially on rainy days, and it's safer since you can do your banking anytime without leaving your car."

The new drive-up ATM joins the walk-up machine, which has been in operation for a number of years, bringing the total number of SuperTellers at the Belle Glade office to two.

The machines are connected to several inter-bank networks, allowing Non-Barnett customers to use either ATM to access funds from their accounts at other banks, for a small fee. There is no fee charged to customers of Barnett to use the machines.

Barnett Banks, Inc. currently operates more than 825 ATMs throughout the state, with about 200 additional units being installed this year. Barnett Banks, N.A., Lake Okeechobee has offices in Belle Glade, Moore Haven, and Okeechobee.

Creating Family Disaster Plans part 1 of 2

By Chris Floyd
Disaster Services Director
Capital Area Chapter

1. Disaster can strike quickly and without warning. Without proper planning a family could suffer greatly. Natural disasters can force a family to be confined at home or be evacuated from the neighborhood. If disaster strikes would your family know how to find each other? Would you know how to verify everyone is safe? Would you be prepared to live without basic services such as water, gas, electricity or telephones?

A family disaster plan is the best preparation. Planning in advance and working together as a team allows a family to cope with any disaster. The first step is to develop your plan. There are four steps to safety.

Find Out What Could Happen

In your area there are many organizations that can help explain the potential hazards your family is most likely to face. These include your local chapter of the American Red Cross, County Emergency Management Office, or your local National Weather Service office. These agencies provide information on how to prepare for any potential disaster.

These agencies will also provide a description of the community's warning signals, what they sound like and what to do when you hear them. You can also obtain information concerning community shelters and services provided during a disaster.

It is important to find out about the disaster plans at your workplace, your children's school or day care center and other places your family may spend time.

Create A Disaster Plan

Creating a disaster plan should involve all family members, including children. First discuss the need to prepare for disaster and the potential dangers that may strike your area. It is important that each family member understands the dangers of fire and severe weather. The family plan needs to insure that everyone works as a team.

The family plan needs to include places for the family to meet. One place needs to be outside of the home in case of a sudden emergency, like a fire. Another place needs to be a location outside of your neighborhood in case you can't return home. Everyone needs to know the address and phone number. Also, discuss what the family will do if the community advisory is to evacuate.

Another good idea is for an out-of-state friend to be your "family contact" in case the family is separated. After a disaster, it's often easier to call long distance. All family members should call this person and tell them where they are. Everyone must know this family contact.

For Additional Information

For additional information contact your local chapter of the American Red Cross or County Emergency Management Office.

September is alligator hunting season in Florida, when 674 licensed hunters will test their skills against the reptile at 35 sites throughout the state.

This will mark the ninth hunt since the first modern, statewide gator season was held in 1988, said Lt. Jim Hufford, Everglades public information coordinator for the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission (GFC).

The 1996 hunters were selected by random computer draw from 12,685 applicants. Hunters were assigned one of two phases.

The first phase is scheduled Sept. 1-15.

The second phase is Sept. 16-30, according to Hufford.

Each hunter can take up to five alligators. Firearms are forbidden. Gators may be legally taken with snatch hooks, snares, gags, or harpoons. Bows-and-arrows or crossbows may only be used if the projectile is attached to a restraining line. Bang sticks can only be used to dispatch captured gators.

Other rules include:

—only non-hatching gators measuring greater than 18-inches in length may be taken.

—phase one will begin a half-hour before sunset Sept. 1, and conclude at midnight, Sept. 15.

—phase two will begin a half-hour before sunset, Sept. 16, and conclude at midnight, Sept. 30.

—licensed gun trapper cannot give their license to other individuals, and must be present in the boat when the gator is taken.

—hunters must have a valid 1996 gator hunting license.

The cost is $250 for state residents, and $1,000 for out-of-state. Further information on the gator season may be obtained by calling the GFC Everglades Regional Office at (561) 640-0100.

(DM)—Chinese food lovers delight in the flavor contrasts of Hot & Sour Soup. Now, these distinctive tastes have been used to give new life to classic Broccoli Beef. In this & Sour Broccoli Beef, crushed red pepper and a little small amount of vinegar provide the desired tang. But what brings these contrasts together is the use of Kikkoman Soy Sauce. Only a naturally brewed soy sauce that has been aged for several months has the distinctive taste qualities to provide a savory balance and meaty richness, without overpowering the other ingredients. Plain steamed rice is the perfect side-dish to complement the zesty flavor of this stir-fry.

HOT &amp; SOUR BROCCOLI BEEF

1/4 pound tender beef steak	1/4 to 1/2 teaspoon crushed red pepper
1 tablespoon cornstarch	3 tablespoons Kikkoman Soy Sauce, divided
3 tablespoons Kikkoman Soy Sauce, divided	1 large clove garlic, minced
1/2 large onion, thinly sliced	1 medium onion, thinly sliced
1/2 pound fresh broccoli	2 teaspoons vinegar
4 teaspoons cornstarch	Hot cooked rice

Cut beef across grain into thin slices. Combine 1 Tbsp. each cornstarch and soy sauce with garlic and sugar; stir in beef. Let stand 10 minutes. Meanwhile, remove and cut broccoli flowerets into bite-size pieces. Peel stalks; cut diagonally into thin slices. Combine 4 teaspoons cornstarch, crushed red pepper, remaining 2 Tbsp. soy sauce and 1 cup water; set aside. Heat 1 Tbsp. oil in hot wok or large skillet over high heat. Add beef and stir-fry 1 minute; remove. Heat remaining oil in same pan. Add broccoli and onion; stir-fry 2 minutes. Sprinkle 1 Tbsp. water over vegetables; cover and cook 2 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add soy sauce mixture; stir-fry until sauce boils and thickens, about 1 minute. Remove from heat; stir in vinegar. Serve with rice.

The rarest marine mammal is the Caribbean Monk Seal—there are so few of them left that they have been classified as "nearly extinct" by the Environmental Data Report, published by the United Nations Environment Program.
